He said: "As I look back over 29 years of my life I realize that none of these gifts would have been possible without my wife. She taught me to earn and imbued me with the spirit of philanthropy. To her I owe everything."

Sigma Taus Entertain Cadman. Entertaining Cadman with renditions of his own compositions and being in turn entertained with piano recitals by Cadman, was the nature of a delightfully enjoyable and inspiring musical yesterday afternoon at the fraternity home of the Sigma Taus who were hosts of the noted composer. Cadman's exquisite song cycle, the "Morning of the Year," was sung by a mixed quartette. Misses Julia Pickard and Adele Howell, and Messrs. Stanley Seder and Robert Sewell. The popular Indian songs heard at the Cadman concert Thursday night were rendered in splendid voice by Messrs. Charles Weber, W. G. Arens, Robert Sewell and Stanley Seder. Gracefully responding to the invitation to play, Cadman treated his host and the company to a grand concert equal to any to be heard east or west by the few composers of the day that are Cadman's equal. Those who were privileged to be present on this memorable occasion were Professor W. E. Moore, Professor Leon H. Stephan, Professor C. E. Hodgin, Miss Evelyn Everett, Hazel Cox, Kephables, Flora Ruman, Florence Seiter, Letta Sterling, Julia Packard, Mrs. Clark, Edith Sherman, Edith Brandt, Myrtle Price, M. Smith, G. Rosenzweig, Adele Howell, M. Smith, Calburn Cook, Edward Dorn, Clyde Kelly, Charles Weber, Karl Karsten, R. W. Arens, W. G. Arens, Guy Seder, Stanley Seder, W. J. Higgins.

Never leaving anything out in the line of hospitable entertainment the Sigma Taus had also provided toothsome delicacies for the enjoyment of their guests.

Cadman Recital.

Never before in the history of Albuquerque have the people been treated to the musical, intellectual and spiritual uplift combined in the music talk and piano recital Thursday evening by the gifted composer Charles Wakefield Cadman. The audience of the Presbyterian church was filled with a representative audience of the culture and intelligence of the city, and the appreciation of Cadman at times was expressed in applause that became ovationary. The dist-

GALLUP.

The society people of Gallup and Gibson turned out in grand style to attend the prize masquerade ball Saturday evening, April 22d at the opera house, which was given by the Jolly Six Club. It was a success, in fact was one of the best attended and most enjoyable masquerades that has been put off in this city in many months, every one, as the name of the club signifies, were out for a jolly time—and had it. There was no disturbance in the evening's program and from the time the orchestra started, promptly at 9 o'clock, until the beautiful strains of "Home Sweet Home," everyone present had a delightful time. Mrs. W. M. McSparron and Will Hartman rendered the music for the occasion and were at their best at this occasion.

At the conclusion of the feast, according to custom, the intellectual phase of the society claimed the attention of the company. Professor Hodgin, in his customary brief and entertaining style, gave a history of the Ten Dons from the time of organization seven years ago to the present day. Being organized September 4, 1904, by ten congenial gentlemen for the purpose of promoting social and intellectual comradeship, seven of the charter members are now members. The custom of the society is to hold two meetings each month, having dinner together at 6:30 and devoting the evening till 10 o'clock to the consideration of a paper on some topic of the day. At the conclusion of the story of their society, the Dons proposed a series of toasts, featuring in happy speeches the approaching departure of Professor and Mrs. Hodgin for foreign lands. Other subjects also came in for a share of toast proposals and witty responses by members of this congenial company that adjourned after the speechmaking to the drawing room for enjoyment of music. The rule of ten o'clock adjournment was broken and reluctant good nights and good byes were said at midnight.

The full membership of the Dons and their wives who were present at this most happy function were: Dr. Wroth and Mrs. Wroth, Dr. and Mrs. Hope, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stroup, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Christy, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McMillen, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Reilly, Judge E. A. Mann and Mrs. Mann, Professor and Mrs. C. E. Hodgin.

Masonic Dedication.

The formal dedication of the Masonic temple has been postponed from the date of June 1 to the third Monday in October. This date will be the opening session of the grand lodge to convene in this city, and in order to lend to the auspicious occasion the dignity of the grand lodge officers in the dedicatory rites the later date has been deemed advisable by the local officers.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Frank Meyers of Las Vegas returned to her home in the "Meadow City" after visiting friends in this city, where she formerly resided.

Mrs. Louise Watson is recuperating from a delicate operation performed on her eye last week at her home on South Walter street.

Dr. E. McQueen Gray and Miss May Mayfield left this morning for Santa Fe, where they will lecture and entertain this evening in one of the series of the University extension course. Dr. Gray will deliver his celebrated lecture on "Macbeth," and Miss Ross will read "Confessions" by Constance Doyle, Miss Egyptiades, who was to have accompanied these professors to contribute vocal selections, was unable to go on account of a slight operation on her throat that will prevent her from singing.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Shimpay entertained a number of their friends at military five hundred last Saturday evening. Mesdames Carter, Copp and Goddard and Messrs. Cox and Goddard, who represented Germany, captured the greater number of flags and were each awarded a prize. The affair was highly complimentary to the hosts of the evening.

Last Friday the Rev. Perez Silver made two eloquent addresses at the church of the Good Shepherd, Silver City. In the afternoon he spoke before the members of the Woman's Auxiliary and other members of the church.

Ulysses S. G. Allen of Fort Bayard and Mrs. Anna E. Allen of Manhattan, Kansas, were married at the residence of Mrs. Alexander in this city on Friday afternoon, April 28th. The Rev. Leonidas W. Mr. and Mrs. William Bassett, store manager at Murray & Layne's grocery in this city, he had spent the winter here, leaving for Blair about three weeks ago. The newly married couple arrived in this city on Sunday's train. They expect to leave today for Santa Rita, where they will make their future home and at which place Mr. Bassett holds a responsible position with the Chino Copper company. During their temporary stop over in this city Mr. and Mrs. Bassett were the recipients of hearty congratulations from Mr. Bassett's many friends.

Mrs. Jennie Brown entertained at a delightful card party last Tuesday afternoon. Military etiquette was played, and as Ireland was victorious, each of the six ladies presiding at that table was awarded an appropriate prize. At the conclusion of the game, delicious refreshments were served.

Miss Florence White entertained a number of her young friends at a dance at her home on Bullard street last Wednesday evening.

RATON.

The Epworth league of the Methodist church held their monthly business meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Gertrude Warner.

After a final canvassing of the contest vote between the "Reds" and the "Blues," it was found that the "Reds" were entitled to something over 2,466 votes and the "Blues" to 3,229 votes.

As a result of the victory of the former, the losing side will give a banquet one week from next Friday evening to the "Blues." Harmon S. Palmer was elected president of the league in the place of Miss Mabel Fulghum, who has removed to California.

The Shakespeare club was entertained last evening at the home of Superintendent T. W. Conway.

Mr. W. G. T. will attend the bi-annual convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to convene in Harrisburg, Penn., as official representative of the Albuquerque lodge.

part of the program consisted in miscellaneous numbers designed to express the great beauty and strength of Cadman's compositions. The Presbyterian choir in splendid style rendered Stainer's "What Are These," that was followed by two Cadman songs by Miss Alma Howell, demonstrating the clear sweetness of her young voice. Perhaps the most brilliant number of the evening was Cadman's "Fan," that was one of the numbers when he seemed to idealize the piano with the emotions of a master artist stamped with the high ideals of a strong soul. "The Indian Boat Song," sung by the University quartette, Messrs. Seder, Sewell, Weber and Arens, was rendered with the joyous exuberance of a true Venetian. Cadman's piano numbers played by Miss Bellows, Kenworthy, were interpreted with the skill of a trained performer and sympathizer of the composer's aims.

Part two constituted the educational part of the program and revealed to his listeners for the first time the great work of mankind and especially to Americans that Cadman is doing in idealizing and immortalizing the music of the native Indians. Seated at the piano, this student of tribal harmonies and lover of the often despised red race, told the customs of many tribes, their sincerity in religious aims and the emotions of the souls that were identically the same ages ago as with the twentieth century man. Mr. Andrews' fine tenor voice sang the songs of religion, love and patriotism that demonstrated wealth of harmony in the ancient methods.

A remarkable song was the chant of the Omaha, preserved in all its purity since the seventh century that proved the similarity of the music expressions of all peoples in the great world's family, as the chant unaccompanied on the piano was a veritable Gregorian chant familiar to the ear of all Catholics.

Mr. Andrews' song "All nash de loo" by Mr. Andrews was one of the favorites of this part of the program. Assisted by Mr. Andrews, Cadman demonstrated the various rhythms employed by the red men in religious and other ceremonies. An ancient drum made of an old tree trunk was drummed and numerous tom toms and rattles played. Part three opened with three songs by Mrs. McDonald that elicited unanimous and the singer was brought back for the repetition of "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water" that has been popularized around the world.

Mr. Ormsbee's supertative bass voice was heard in the first and last parts of the program in love songs and religious songs. Enthusiastic applause evidenced the appreciation of Mr. Ormsbee's splendid rendition.

Wednesday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Reilly entertained the "Ten Dons" and their wives at dinner. Commemorative of the seventh anniversary that is always a courtesy to the ladies, and in the nature of year-end meeting prior to adjournment for the summer and also a farewell gathering complimentary to Professor and Mrs. C. E. Hodgin, who will spend the coming year in Europe, the affair Wednesday evening was in every way the most notable event in the annals of the society. At 6:30 the score of guests assembled about the long table that was placed in the magnificent sun parlor of the O'Reilly home.

Here in a veritable fairyland of greenery and blossoms enhanced by the glow of numerous incandescents, the guests passed an evening of unalloyed pleasure that will never be forgotten. Palms, ferns, trailing vines and potted plants formed the background for feature decoration in sweet peas that bloomed in lavish profusion all over the rooms, scented the air with the incense of springtime. Masses of the sweet flowers graced the table where an elaborate menu of eight courses were enjoyed by the guests. The hand-painted place cards delicately suggested the travels of Professor and Mrs. Hodgin, bearing a moonlight ocean scene and the words "bon voyage."
